I. Informational Update on the Junior Ranger Program

Regional Interpretive and Recreation Services Manager Mike Moran provided an overview of the Junior Ranger program. Supervising Naturalist Sara Fetterly shared information from the most recent survey.

Member Skaredoff asked what age participants join and how long they participate. Fetterly indicated there are two-year increments until age 14 when the program becomes four-year increments. A large majority of participants stay eight to nine years.

Member Lopez inquired whether there has been discussion about replicating the program in other areas of the Park District. Moran indicated this is the third group. Each program has paired with a community partner to create a strong community relationship. Lopez asked staff to expand on the "other" section about how the Junior Ranger program is publicized. Fetterly indicated the program is not publicly shared, but is advertised in the visitor center and may be shared more broadly.

Member Valenzuela asked about the community partner, People Who Care, and where it was based. Moran indicated it is a Pittsburg-based organization.

Member Peoples inquired whether survey respondents could be asked about the program's benefits to the Park District and community. Fetterly responded more programs have been requested due to the beneficial effects of the program for both the Park District and participants. Peoples inquired whether program participants were feeding into the Park District's seasonal employee pipeline. Fetterly confirmed they are.

Member Farmer hoped to see tracking of future program participants who apply for Park District positions. She inquired how program admission decisions are made given the low number of positions. Fetterly indicated it was difficult, but that not every applicant could be taken unfortunately.

Member Reid inquired about the level of diversity within the group. Fetterly indicated the group was diverse in several ways including race and gender.

Vice Chair Espana asked who the program is benefiting in terms of demographics, economic diversity and program access. She commented on program bias and ways in which the program experiences are presented to both new and returning participants. Espana hoped to see continued evaluation and metrics to determine program success.

Member Henry shared concerns about whether the Junior Ranger program was open to all, including new members, or becoming more of a legacy program.

Member Lopez asked what languages the program is posted in. Fetterly indicated it is not posted, but is shared verbally in English and Spanish at the visitor center. Moran shared these considerations are part of increasing access to the program in a sustainable way that allows enough spaces for new members to join.

Fetterly finished the presentation. Chair Tsutsui thanked staff for the information and commended the program for its success and for the chance to evaluate future opportunities.

Member Deschambault inquired about the science and climate science components of the program. Fetterly indicated there is a large education component especially focused on stewardship and science.

Member Dieter asked about the next steps following the questionnaire. Moran answered staff are collecting data in order to inform next steps. The goal is to reach as many people as possible while maintaining the values of the program with adequate resources.

Member Peoples indicated the Park District may have an opportunity to leverage resources aimed at increasing participation and leveraging limited staff resources.

Member Skaredoff asked what type of exploration is done with an applicant when deciding whether they will enter the program. Fetterly indicated the process is a conundrum especially to ensure new applicants are being exposed to naturalist and outdoor programs. Sufficient staffing is an additional challenge.

Vice Chair Espana emphasized the programs are targeting different career pathways. She asked how information would be collected to monitor whether a program is diverse. Assistant General Manager of Operations Lisa Goorjian indicated the ongoing demographics study with San Francisco State University. This information will be shared with the Park District's Board Operations Committee. She shared Park District programs are delivered at an administrative, staff level. Due to the legacy of this program, the Park District is engaging families who have participated to help better align the program's future. Next steps will include compiling the information received, aligning it with the Park District's work, and working with the Board and General Manager. Moran shared his appreciation for the comments regarding career development and shared information regarding program events which speak to this goal.

Member Reid appreciated the observation of unmet need for a number of children who would like to participate. Fetterly indicated many of the program participants feel at home in this program.

Member Claxton shared her interest to see similar programs in Fremont and Union City. Moran indicated there is a similar program in process at Coyote Hills in Union City.

Public Comment – Francis Mendoza shared his appreciation for the presentation and encouraged more programs in Fremont, Union City and Hayward to spread the wealth. He shared his greetings from the Klamath River.
